Channel Noise 14 will feature graduate students performing live works that intersect music and technology. In this iteration of the concert series, the works crossover into the popular music genre. The hope is to conjure artfulness in popular music and accessibility in art music. After the concert, 10t;4t, an audiovisual work by music technology alums Aaron Anderson and Eddie Farr, will be installed in the rotunda outside the Russell Union building.

The concert is on Thursday April 13 at 7:30 PM in the Carter Recital Hall. Admission is free, and open to the public.
